revolutionary socialism in the 21st century

ECOSOCIALIST REVOLUTION

The world isn't ending.

We are facing an ongoing struggle, not a single apocalypse. There may be tipping points and disasters in climate breakdown, but there is no end point on the horizon after which nobody will be left to suffer, or to fight. Instead, the consequences will be faced disproportionately by the working class and poor of the world, until the system is overthrown. So let's get to work.

We all know that massive climate action is needed. But our movements often get bogged down in individual actions and the immediate steps in front of us. We need to think bigger.

To get anywhere close to winning, we need to recognise the capitalist drive to environmental destruction. We need to bring climate struggle and class struggle together. We need ecosocialist revolution.

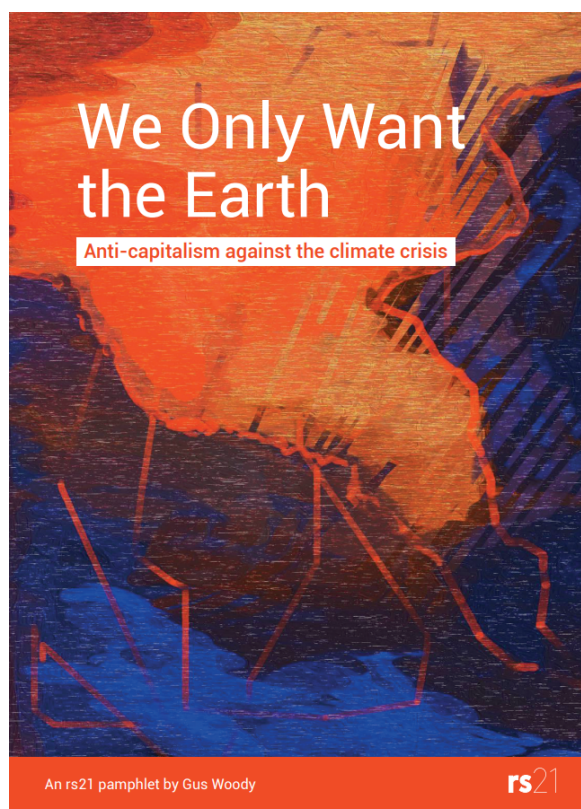

Ecosocialist • Feminist • Anti-racist

BEYOND COP26

These COP26 mobilisations are important but what we do after is much more important.

READ OUR NEW PAMPHLET

This pamphlet explores current debates around degrowth, the Green New Deal, direct action, just transition, racism and imperialism.

It argues for prioritising issues and actions that build collective power as well as winning steps towards decarbonisation. Read the case for ecosocialist revolution and what it could look like.
