

WHAT WOULD A REVOLUTION LOOK LIKE?

5pm Thursday 21st Sept
Kro Bar

325 Oxford Rd, M13 9PG

Join the discussion, introduced by Ian Allinson, local rs21 activist and author of Workers Can Win! A Guide to Organising At Work.

With an escalating climate crisis, imperialist wars, a housing crisis, public services on their knees, inflation, poverty, discrimination and increasing state repression, more and more people recognise that capitalism has to go, and that can only happen through a revolution.

But people use the term revolution to mean very different things - from a military operation to a festival of the oppressed. Does it have to be violent? Can it be democratic? Could it deliver liberation? Are revolutions doomed to fail? Could one happen in modern Britain anyway?

The Tories and the right-wing media are on the offensive against trans people and migrants, while Labour concedes far too much ground to the racists and bigots.

Sadly, there are those who claim to be on the left who play a part in promoting and legitimising transphobia. rs21's new pamphlet Fighting Transphobia: a practical and theoretical guide explores how people have resisted transphobia in unions, climate and housing campaigns, as well as discussing the bigger picture.

Locally, we have seen transphobes hold a meeting at the People's History Museum (ignoring the wishes of staff) and the Working Class Movement Library apologise when transphobes complained about it recommending the rs21 pamphlet.
